

NOTICEBOARD | CENTRAL OTAGO DISTRICT COUNCIL

29 August 2024

Shaping Central Otago's Economic Future

Central Otago people will have a once in a decade opportunity to influence the direction of the district's economic future.

In July, the Central Otago District Council (CODC) approved the development of a new economic strategy that will reflect the region's potential for both business and community over the next 10 years.

You can read more about that on the CODC website <https://www.codc.govt.nz/your-council/news>. A new era, a new economic strategy for Central Otago.

The next step is to get the community's input into where they see the district going, at a series of public workshops.

What is economic development?

Economic development is about lifting the standard of living for our community through influencing economic growth to improve social, environmental and cultural well-being by providing jobs, sufficient incomes, and the resources required to achieve a healthy standard of living and quality of life.

What is an economic development strategy?

The strategy will outline the steps that the CODC will take to see greater outcomes for our economy and ultimately our communities.

It maps a pathway forward and identifies the key partners the Council needs to work alongside, to move towards a common goal. Harnessing growth for the good of everyone while maintaining what is unique about the Central Otago district will be a challenge, and needs community input. Here's some examples of some goals that may be achieved with the new economic development strategy:

- Improving connectivity (transport/technology) and infrastructure
- Creating an environment that is business friendly
- Protecting and enhancing the landscape and environment
- Supporting diversity of age, skills and employment opportunities
- Increasing prosperity and wellbeing across the district
- Supporting industry and sector-specific goals.

How can I get involved?

You can go to Let's Talk: <https://lets-talk.codc.govt.nz/shaping-central-otago-s-economic-future> to give feedback, and register for the workshops.
