Cromwell is more than just my home, it's where my husband Brent and I have raised our family and proud to run a third-generation family business. My roots run deep, from supporting our local Volunteer Fire Brigade, to cheering on our sons through their school years.

Through my work at the CODC Cromwell Service Centre, ANZ Bank, Goldfields Primary School and Cromwell College, I have gained a real "behind the scenes" look at how a town operates. Whether I'm acting as President of the Cromwell Rowing or advocating for our rangitahi, my focus is always on giving back. I'm a practical person who understands the daily pressure our families face. I'd love to bring that common-sense, community-first energy to our local governance.
